A Nigerian-British force of nature, Jumoke is a self confessed travel addict, she documents her travels through her travel blog and vlog Jayonlife and highlights the accessible and (usually) inaccessible aspects of her chosen destinations. She has found something to like about every place she has visited, but her favourite place was definitely Salvador da Bahia, Brasil.

When not globetrotting, she is the ambassador for a charity called Star Children Initiative that works to enable and advocate for disabled youths and women in her home nation of Nigeria, as well as providing support for parent: ...
